New York's Sensation.

A desperate villain, or a lunatic perhaps, yesterday made a sensation for New York and sacrificed his own life and the lives of three or four others in the effort.

He called upon Mr. Russell Sage and demanded of that venerable financier a million of dollars, and being refused dropped a bomb upon the floor, or threw it at the gray-haired object of his wrath. The explosive proved to be a sort of boomerang, for it killed the bombowner and but slightly wounded the man of money. Great excitement followed, all the details of which are graphically given in our telegraphic solumns.

The lot of the millionaire is not a happy one, altogether. It is bad enough to be the victim of begging letter-writers; but when a fellow comes with an application on his tongue and dynamite in his satched the situation becomes critical.

It has long been said that several of the men of great wealth keep themselves surrounded by detectives, fearing that they will be assaulted or kidnapped, and it is not likely now that any of them will relax their precautions in this respect. Their trials in this life—their danger of disentombment when the breath is out of their bodies-should reconcile the great masses to their own hum-Moderate means are rather to be desired than great riches. All the same the struggle for millions upon millions will go on just as if poor Mr. Sage had not been scared nearly to death; just as if Mr. Cynus FIRED were not one of the most ill-used of men, and just as if Mr. Goven had not graph; acquired everything except happiness. West Virginia and the Virginia Debt

Colonel ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD, of New York, has but little information on the subject of the present condition of the debt of Virginia. In fact, he manifests inexcusable ignorance when he declares, as he has done in his paper, the Mail and Express, that the principal difficulty in the way of settlement has been the refusal of West Virginia to assume her just share of the debt. This statement is ridiculous in view of the fact that the settlement agreed upon recently was effected without any further reference to what West Virginia ought to do in the premises than the mere statement of what was understood to be the relation of that State to the debt. In 1871 Virginia turned over $15,000,000 of her debt to West Virginia. It is not sum to be returned to the State Treasury of Virginia for payment. In fact, to those who know the true state of the case it appears to be ludicrously foolish to talk about West Virginia's owing any more than Virginia has already assigned to her, or, we might add, to hold out to our creditors the hope that West Virginia will ever pay the $15,000,000 we assigned to her twenty years ago, or even a tithe of it. We claim to know what the people of West Virginia think upon this subject and what they may be expected to do in the premises, and we say emphatically that they laugh to scorn the proposition that their State shall pay even one tithe of the amount so generously assigned to her by her mother. Colonel Shepard misunderstands the facts. West Virginia has never consented to pay any portion of what she calls the debt of Virginia.

This West Virginia portion is not so small a matter as Colonel Shepard seems to consider it to be. The fifteen millions of debt which Virginia assigned to her daughter in 1871 has grown (it bears 6 per cent, per annum interest) to more than thirty millions! Think of that little State's trying to pay such a sum as that. The portion which she could pay, if disposed to pay any, is so small contrasted with the sum total of the debt assigned to her that the people there refuse even to consider seriously the proposition to undertake to make any kind of arrangement for the payment even of the former.

Virginia is in a condition somewhat similar. Many of her people do not like to use the word "repudiation," or even to think of that dire alternative. But like on his part. West Virginia's, Virginia's debt has grown to be so large by the accumulation of interest, and has had to be cut down in so that the good old State will despair of ever satisfying her creditors, and proceed Lexington, Ky., and Miss Skawell, now of to let the State debt severely alone. It discourages the debt-payers amongst our people to be told that they are dishonestly trying to cut down the debt to unjustifiably small proportions at the very time that they are using all their best exertions pace with our men in literary underto induce the people to agree to pay takings. the sum fixed upon in the OLCOTT settle-

The assessed value of all the lands in Virginia shows so small a total that our creditors have secured terms so good as those we now offer.

However, we have said enough. We do not wish to be classed with repudiators. We started out twenty years ago with the determination to get the whole State debt paid. We supported the McCclloca bill of our own ports to another? in 1879. Next we even condescended to advocate the RIDDLEBERGER settlement in order to remove the State debt from the field of politics. But all in vain. Now the people are unwilling to settle on the basis of the RIDDLESERGER bill. What else is left except acceptance or repudiation? We put the question to Virginia's bondholders. Ponder st, and decide wisely.

If there ever was any purpose on the part of the Legislature to pass a bifl giving to the commission arbitrary powers as to fixing rates and schedules and making its decisions final, that purpose might as well be abandoned now, since Governor Measure of the control of the be abandoned now, since Governor Mc-Kinner has expressed his firm conviction that such a provision would be improper. True, his veto might be overridden by the vote of the two houses in accordance with plain these facts. How was it possible for a bimetallic country to stand such a run upon its gold? Messra, Hambleton & Co. of Baltimore, monometallists though they be of the most rigid faith, confess that they have no explanation to offer. In their Money promises to be very easy here during the winter, and as bankers will pro-bably have large balances unemployed, gold will come forward only in a natural manner, and no exertion will be had to induce the flow of the yellow metal in our direction. No doubt we shall receive gold from Europe in settlement of balances, but there will probably be no special effort made to enforce payment."

We like to read such remarks in a broker's or banker's circular. They prove that he has studied the subject and knows that there are intricacies in the problem which he has not yet penetrated. It is a pity that these financial questions cannot be kept out of politics, or rather out of party caucuses. However, it seems to be unavoidable in a country where every voter deems it his duty to threaten his law-makers with a hostile ballot if they refuse to fall in with his crude notions.

We are glad to learn that the "U.S." (that is, Mr. Harrison and his Cabinet) is particularly pleased with England's attitude on this subject.

Usurpation in New York. The Republicans of New York are backed by Republican judges in their war upon the rights of the people of that State. Each house of the Legislature has there. as in every State, the right to judge of the elections, qualifications, and returns of its members. This constitutional right ought to protect the members from the courtsought to keep even Republican judges from usurping the power to issue certificates of election or to command the election officers to issue any certificates except such as they decide for themselves it is their duty to issue. Yet read the follow-

ALBANY, N. Y., December 3 .- The senatorial situation to-night is more complex than ever. The Republicans still have the State Board of Canvassers so tied up with injunctions that they can do nothing, and the Democrats have refused to accept the proposition of the Republicans to submit all the contests to the courts and abide by their decision. Apparently the only thing for the Democrats to do now is to secure the removal of the injunction, let the board canvass the returns, and then let the Republians fight the matter out in the courts.

We have great confidence in Governo HILL's sound judgment. What man can do he will do to save to the Democratic party the control of the Legislature of New York. But at present the prospect does not seem bright for a successful fight

It does not appear that any member of the Legislature has as yet started out to achieve distinction for himself by advocating a general dog-law.

The Dispatch will be a ten-page paper to-morrow. Its special articles will be numerous and interesting, and it will have, as usual, an admirable news service, including the proceedings of the Demo cratic caucus in Washington on the speak ership question.

rue, his veto might be overridden by the vote of the two houses in accordance with the Constitution, but that is such a remote possibility that it need not be discussed now.

The nomination for re-election of General Hill, the present Railroad Commissioner, is an expression of confidence in this officer, and would seem to be an indication that the great majority of members regard his services as valuable and that his administration has been satisfactory.

The general opinion, as far as we can ascertain it, is that a railroad law will be passed and that it will be framed so that it will meet the approval of the great majority of country and townspeople.

The Gold Movement.

The shipments of gold from this country to foreign countries last year exceeded seventy millions of dollars. The reshipments back to this country for the same period amounted to over twenty-two millions of dollars only. The man who "knows it all" cannot satisfactorily explain these facts. but slightly damaged.

On the interior portion of the depot building the flames of the old office building mounted upward until the wooder railing and sides of the unfinished waiting-rooms were ablaze. The fra was then carried along a huge yellow-pine pipe-casing to the new office structure. This consisted of five solidly-built structures of brick, 150 by 48 feet, and five stories high. The second floor of the easterly building was used as a baggage-room, the others being merely bare walls. Night-Baggage-Master Regan and his assistants acceeded in saving all the trunks. The four floors above the clude the possibility of judging from a commercial standpoint. Europe took our gold because it desired to strengthen its gold reserve regardless of cost, and now when the balance of trade its largely in our favor we leave our credit balances in Europe, because the gold is more need at there than here. At least it would so appear for unquestionably we could command gold if we so desired.

The flames were under control by 5:30 o'clock, and at 6:30 o'clock the first ferry-boat from Cortlandt street succeeded in landing at the upper slip. The Philadelphia and Washington express, leaving Jersey City at 6:40 o'clock A. M., pulled out of the depot ten minutes late. The trandispatcher's offices escaped the fire, and the railroad wires were again working by 7 o'clock. Trains are now running regularly on time, and the ferries are carrying their nsyal throngs.

The loss on office buildings is estimated at $45,000, and on the train-shed and ferry-house at $3,000. It is more than covered by insurance in the Fennsylvania Company's floating policy.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., December 4.—Under an act of the last Legislature authorizing the bonding of Duval county for the purpose of improving and deepening the channel of the St. John's river, a proposition to issue $300,000 in bonds for this purpose was submitted to the popular vote and carried by a large majority. Fifteen out of twenty-three voting districts in the county show a majority of $57 in favor of the bonds, and the entire vote of the remaining districts is only about $600. The bonds have probably been carried by nearly 800 majority. They will about 600. The bonds have processly deem carried by nearly 800 majority. They will bear 6 per cent. Interest and be issued in blocks of $50,000 each, payable in twenty to forty years. The work to be done is entirely in the river between Jacksonville and the ocean, the Government still continuing the work at the jetties on the St. John's bar as Congress makes appro-priation for it. The river work will be done from plans submitted by Cap-tain W. M. Black, Corps of United States Engineers, and already approved by the War Department. It will give a clear channel two hundred feet wide and twen-ty one feet deep from the mouth of the t. John's to Mandarin, sixteen miles above this city, thus giving access to deep-draught, sea-going vessels, and enabling Jacksonville to engage extensively in domestic and foreign commerce.

quake of October 28th. Careful figuring now places the number of dead at 7,500 and the injured at 10,120, with 89,630 houses wholly and 28,625 partly destroyed. Over 440,000 people have been rendered homeless and deatitute. Many curious freaks of the earthquake have been noticed. In one place a fissure swallowed up four persons, who have remained visible, but whose rescue proved to be impossible. Fortunately the weather remains mild. Rain or cold weather would cause terrible distress. Decent burial has been given to most of the bodies recovered from the ruins in the larger towns, but horrible scenes are presented in the country where the people are unable to inter their dead.

Foreigners have come forward generously with gifts of money, clothing, medicine, etc. Twenty thousand dollars have been contributed by foreign residents, exclusive of the Chinese fund, which is large. Shanghai has sent $5,000, and $110,000 has been raised in various ways in Tokio. In addition to these sums the Japanese Government has made a grant of $2,225,000 to the two prefectures that suffered most.

He Shrinks So do woolens and flannels, if they're not washed properly. Try the right way. Get a package of Pearline, and do as directed. Your things won't shrink, and they'll be softer, brighter, and better, than ever before. That's the beauty of Pearlinewashing is not only easier, but better and safer. Things that you wouldn't dare to trust to the wear and tear of the washboard are washed perfectly with Pearline. You save work, wear, time and money with it, but you can't do any harm. Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you,

"this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S rou an imitation, be honest—and if there.
